At the River I Stand

Join us in celebrating Martin Luther King Jr. Day with a viewing of the documentary "At the River I Stand." The film chronicles AFSCME Memphis Sanitation workers strike in 1968, where Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. gave his famous "I have been to the mountaintop" speech. Dr. King was assassinated the following day. Just as Dr. King fought vigorously and aggressively for racial and economic justice, these workers in Memphis stood up for justice in the workplace against unbeatable odds.
